Christian Legal Society Presents Home Schooling Lecture

All interested persons are invited to attend Judge Ken Johnson's presentation on Home Schooling. The lecture will take place on Tuesday evening, January 19th at 7:30 p.m. in the Moot Court Room. Judge Johnson, a Marion County Superior Court judge, is a leading advocate of home schooling. He is the founder and past president of the Indiana Association of Home Educators and currently is on the Board of Directors. Additionally, he is on the Board of Directors of the Home Schooling Legal Association, a national organization with over 43,000 members.

Law, Ethics and the Arts Group Forming

The Law, Ethics and the Arts Society is a student organization interested in examining the many complex issues which arise at the intersection of the legal and arts worlds. The society will focus on concrete events and conflicts, some of which have long histories and all of which are relevant today. Some of the many areas with which the Law, Ethics and the Arts Society is concerned include:

Constitutional Law - Does the First Amendment protect obscene art from suppression? Should pornography be considered art? International Law - Do countries have the right to the return of plundered national treasures? Copyright Law - What kinds of property rights do artists have in reproductions of their visual images? When is sampling in rap music illegal? Entertainment Law - What special kinds of knowledge and skills do entertainment lawyers need? Public Policy - Who should commission and select art in public places? What the National Endowment for the Arts do? Artists' Rights - Can a collector alter or destroy a piece of art work once she owns it? Some possible activities for the Law, Ethics and the Arts Society include hosting lectures, sponsoring legal workshops for art students and local artists, visiting museums and galleries and planning social events. If you are interested in organizing, supporting or contributing in any way to the Law, Ethics and the Arts Society, please drop a note in my mailbox or give me a call at 335-0240. Thanks, Karl Butterer(2L).
